3 Counsel, please state your appearances.

4 MS. BRODERICK: Carol Broderick, your Honor.

5 MR. HARWOOD: Good morning, your Honor, Robert
6 Harwood for derivative plaintiffs.

7 MR. SERIO: Good morning, your Honor. Robert
8 Serio for all defendant. With me is Ross Wallin, also from 9 Gibson Dunn.

10 JUDGE MCMAHON: Okay. Have a seat.

11 This en banc session, as we call it. The In Re:
12 Veeco Instruments, Inc., Securities Litigation is occasioned
13 by a flurry of letters, applications to Judge Yanthis, who 14 has done a herculean job in supervising you so far, and 15 really so that we can get this thing reigned in and ready
16 for a July 9 trial for anybody who is in this district and 17 isn't going to get remanded to some other district.

18 So, let's start with the outstanding motions.
19 There are three of them. Judge Yanthis is going to rule on 20 the motion to amend the complaint, and let me get out of his 21 way.

22 JUDGE YANTHIS: All right. I have reviewed the 23 papers on the motion to file a second amended complaint to 24 allege the grant and receipt of backdated stock options.
25 The motion is denied. The court finds that it's not

3

1 sufficiently related to the main allegations that are in the 2 current amended complaint, it's essentially a whole new 3 case. If derivative plaintiffs see fit to file a new suit,
4 that is the route it will have to go.

5 So that is denied.

6 JUDGE MCMAHON: And let me tell you all, in case

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

7 anybody has any delusions about appealing, that is exactly
8 the ruling I would have made on the motion.

9 Second motion that is pending and became fully 10 briefed is actually an objection by the plaintiff asking me
11 to vacate and reverse certain portions of the discovery
12 order of Magistrate Judge George A. Yanthis, dated 13 January 26, 2007. That motion is denied. After review of 14 the order and taking a look at the papers filed in support,
15 I do not believe that the magistrate clearly erred in any 16 aspect of his ruling and, accordingly, the plaintiffs are 17 directed to respond to all interrogatories as suggested by 18 the magistrate, not suggested, ordered by the magistrate and 19 the plaintiffs are advised that they have the names, or the 20 defendants are advised that they have the names of C1, C2,
21 C3, the fact that they don't know that they are C1, C2 and 22 C3 is completely and totally irrelevant. Okay. So that 23 order is upheld.

24 Continuing the party, Gibson Dunn filed a motion
25 on wednesday to which I believe, I don't know if it's

4

1 Ms. Broderick or Mr. Harwood that's going to be responding.

2 MR. SERIO: No, your Honor, we didn't file any 3 motions or any appeals. We just object -- responded to 4 plaintiff's objection on the privilege motion, that was the 5 other pending motion. Plaintiff's appeal.

6 JUDGE MCMAHON: I'm sorry, it's plaintiff's
7 privilege motion. I apologize. I just got those papers. I
8 just got the other papers, too, but the other papers were 9 easy enough to review. I just got those papers. I'm not 10 prepared to rule on that. I will rule on that next week.

11 JUDGE YANTHIS: There was an application by the

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

12 derivative plaintiffs to take 10 depositions in the case. I
13 have reviewed all those papers. I do conclude that 14 derivative plaintiffs are entitled to take 10 depositions.
15 Use your judgment, but you are entitled to 10 depositions.

16 MR. HARWOOD: Thank you, your Honor.

17 JUDGE MCMAHON: I started this morning's
18 proceedings by telling you that anybody who's not going to 19 be remanded to another district is going to trial on the 9th
20 of July. So we're working backwards from there. That date
21 is fixed, it is firm, it is immutable, I don't care if you
22 have vacations. That's the first time I ever said that. I
23 never thought I would say that. The behavior in this case
24 is such that I simply have to reign this thing in. It's a
25 two-year-old case. It's an '05 case. So let's work

5

1 backward from there. We need a discovery deadline, a
2 discovery deadline that is fixed, that is firm, that 3 includes expert discovery and that discovery deadline is 4 May 11. If the plaintiffs have a damages expert, they need
5 to designate that expert and get a report to the defendants
6 by the 23 of March.

7 MS. BRODERICK: Could you speak a little slower?

8 JUDGE MCMAHON: I'm so sorry.

9 Plaintiffs need to designate their damages expert
10 and prepare their report and get it to the defendant by 23
11 of March.

12 MS. BRODERICK: 23 March.

13 JUDGE MCMAHON: 23 March. Defendants damages and 14 expert report to plaintiffs April 20. I'm not changing this 15 deadline. I'm not changing any of those deadlines. This

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

16 case has been hanging around for a very long time. I
17 assumed you've already retained your damages experts. If 18 you haven't, get out there and do it next week.

19 MS. BRODERICK: Discovery cut-off was when, your 20 Honor?

21 JUDGE MCMAHON: Discovery cut-off was May 11.

22 MS. BRODERICK: I'm terribly sorry, I'm a slow
23 writer.

24 JUDGE MCMAHON: You can get the transcript. We'll 25 do an order. Whatever. May 11.

6

1 The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure obviously
2 allow people to make summary judgment motions. I think
3 you'll be wasting your time. In fact, I'm positive that 4 you'll be wasting your time, and I'm really looking at the 5 people who are going to try to make the motion. You'll be 6 wasting your time and you'll be wasting your client's money.
7 We're going to try the case. I know a lot about this case.
8 I know enough about this case to know it's not a summary
9 judgment case. And by the way, no judge has ever been 10 reversed for denying a summary judgment. But it's not a 11 ruling. And then we have a trial. So I'd prepare for a
12 July 9 trial, if I were you.

13 Now what does anyone have to whine about this 14 morning?

15 MR. HARWOOD: Your Honor, I have nothing to whine
16 about.

17 JUDGE MCMAHON: That's nice to hear.

18 MS. BRODERICK: I have one question, your Honor.

19 JUDGE MCMAHON: Yes, Ms. Broderick. Can you use
20 the microphone? I should be using it. It would help you if

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

21 I would use it.

22 MS. BRODERICK: I'm a little choky this morning,
23 so I should use the microphone.

24 Motions in limine, your Honor, a date. More to 25 the point, may I file one now?

7

1 JUDGE MCMAHON: You could file one anytime you
2 want. I won't rule on it until the pretrial order is in.
3 That's a date to be set.

4 MS. BRODERICK: I want to raise it because it's a
5 kind of a peculiar one. There is authority in the Second
6 Circuit that if a defendant chooses to rely on the 7 proposition in a securities action that the defendant
8 believed his actions were lawful, that the defendant must 9 reveal his communications with counsel on the subject.

10 JUDGE MCMAHON: Well, if the defendant is relying
11 on the advice of counsel, not if the defendant's actions
12 were lawful.

13 MS. BRODERICK: No, no, no. This is in a peculiar 14 sense. This is a case in which there are issues about the 15 defendant's internal control and disclosure control
16 compliance. And so the issue is, and we served an 17 interrogatory on the subject and the defendants refused to 18 respond to it, the defendants believe that their actions
19 complied with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. And there is a case, 20 it's US versus Bilzarian, where the issue was whether 21 defendants believed that their actions complied --

22 JUDGE MCMAHON: I'm very familiar with the 23 Bilzarian case.

24 MS. BRODERICK: Excellent. Excellent.

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments
JUDGE MCMAHON: And it predated by many, many

8

1 years Sarbanes-Oxley. I was still in practice.

2 MS. BRODERICK: The issue here is -- I didn't know
3 that you were that old. I thought only I was.

4 JUDGE MCMAHON: I'm that old and older.

5 MS. BRODERICK: Anyway. So, the issue is, the 6 defendants refused to respond as to whether they believed -- 7 whether they are going to take the position that they
8 believe that their actions comply with the Sarbanes-Oxley
9 Act. This is as to disclosure controls and internal 10 controls. And it is our position under Bilzarian and 11 progeny that, if they take the position at trial that they
12 believe their actions were compliant with the Sarbanes-Oxley
13 Act --

14 JUDGE MCMAHON: Only if they believe -- are you
15 asserting the advice of counsel defense?

16 MR. SERIO: We have not asserted it, your Honor.

17 JUDGE MCMAHON: If they're going to get on the 18 stand and say, my lawyers told me that what I was doing was 19 right, then you are absolutely correct under Bilzarian.

20 MS. BRODERICK: Well, Bilzarian was not an advice
21 of counsel.

22 JUDGE MCMAHON: Excuse me. Excuse me. Excuse me.
23 They've denied the allegations of the complaint, that means 24 that they believe that everything they did was lawful. That 25 is not an automatic waiver of the attorney-client privilege

9

1 and there is nothing in Bilzarian and nothing in any Second
2 Circuit case with which I am familiar that says otherwise.

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

3 MS. BRODERICK: May I brief it?

4 JUDGE MCMAHON: You can brief it. You can make 5 any kind of motion you want, but I'm telling you that by 6 denying the allegation of the complaint, they have said,
7 everything we did is lawful. That's what a denial is. If 8 they don't capitulate and they go to trial, they're going to 9 be standing up in this courtroom and saying, everything we 10 did was lawful. That does not automatically subject their 11 attorneys to cross examination by you.

12 MS. BRODERICK: Okay. Okay. We'll brief it.
13 We'll brief it. Because this goes beyond a denial, it is an 14 affirmative assertion of a belief in the lawfulness of your 15 activities.

16 JUDGE MCMAHON: I'm sorry, you can brief anything
17 you want.

18 MS. BRODERICK: Right, okay.

19 JUDGE MCMAHON: My seat-of-the-pants reaction is 20 that you are trying to extend Bilzarian way, way, way beyond
21 what it really deals with.

22 Okay. Well, but you ask a good question, which 23 is, when the in limine motions are due. They're due the 24 same day the final pretrial order is due; that's June 1.
25 And then responses to in limine motions are due June 8.

10

1 There are no replies on in limine motions.

2 Now, how many cases do I have to try and how many
3 case he are going back somewhere else unless the parties
4 consent?

5 Did everything get filed in this district? No.

6 MR. HARWOOD: One got filed in the Eastern

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

7 District, your Honor, one of the derivative cases. We're 8 happy to stay here.

9 THE COURT: Fine. Good. We're here.

10 And do I have a jury demand in this case, in the 11 securities?

12 MS. BRODERICK: Yes, your Honor.

13 JUDGE MCMAHON: Not the derivative case but the 14 other case. Okay.

15 All right.

16 MR. SERIO: Your Honor, one question. Should 17 there be experts other than damages experts?

18 JUDGE MCMAHON: Same days. What other experts
19 were you thinking of designating?

20 MR. HARWOOD: Corporate governance expert in the 21 derivative action.

22 JUDGE MCMAHON: That's the curse of
23 Sarbanes-Oxley, I know, corporate governance experts. Sure.
24 Same dates.

25 MR. SERIO: Thank you, your Honor.

11

1 JUDGE MCMAHON: Ms. Broderick, what else do you
2 have beside you want to make an in limine motion?

3 MS. BRODERICK: Well, we do have some discovery
4 motions to make. That's not relevant at this time.

5 JUDGE MCMAHON: What discovery motions do you have 6 to make? Everything's on the table this morning. Too many 7 discovery motions in this case.

8 MS. BRODERICK: We have discovery motions
9 addressed to defendants' recent responses to our 10 interrogatories and document requests.

11 JUDGE MCMAHON: Sorry.
Page 9

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

12 MS. BRODERICK: For example, for example -- and as 13 a matter of fact they're related to the motion that's before
14 you, your Honor -- one of the things is the defendants, by 15 the way, suggest that we don't need the discovery, it's the 16 subject of a motion before your Honor because we could 17 pursue it, by the way, by way of answers to interrogatories
18 and they point to one answer to an interrogatory which is 19 one of the answers to interrogatories that we mean to 20 compel, move to compel for their answers because we asked,
21 what were the components as to each item of the restatement,
22 state when it was found by whom and how. And instead of 23 answering by item they said -- they answered by category,
24 did not answer how. And as to when, said between December
25 and March.

12

1 And our request for further answers is going to
2 be: Don't answer by category, answer by item, as we asked;
3 don't answer between January and March in a securities
4 action when something is discovered of significance; and 5 please answer how. There is no answer as to how other than 6 it was discovered in the course of internal audit.

7 So that's one of the motions.

8 And then the defense have taken the position that 9 the provision in the scheduling order, which was drafted
10 with them, that said documents would be produced by 11 August 31 was a provision which was not intended as a date
12 by which documents would be produced but was intended to 13 prevent the plaintiffs from filing any further document
14 requests beyond the first one.

15 JUDGE MCMAHON: I'll solve that problem. Where's

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

16 that order? Do you have it?

17 MS. BRODERICK: I'm terribly sorry, I don't.

18 JUDGE MCMAHON: Anybody have a copy of that order?
19 I'd like to see the exact words in that order.

20 MR. SERIO: Your Honor, I just wanted to point out
21 that Ms. Broderick has not met and conferred regarding the 22 interrogatory.

23 MS. BRODERICK: I meant to do that today.

24 JUDGE MCMAHON: She's going to do that today.
25 That doesn't mean I can't ask her what she's planning to do.

13

1 I mean, Judge Yanthis is spending an awful lot of time with
2 you folks. I don't know.

3 JUDGE YANTHIS: The motion you're talking about
4 now is nothing that has been sent to the court.

5 JUDGE MCMAHON: Right, I want a sneak preview.

6 MS. BRODERICK: And then, we have --

7 JUDGE MCMAHON: I want a copy of the order, I'll
8 tell you what it says and I'll tell you how I interpret it
9 and that will be the end of that.

10 MS. BRODERICK: There's one order which deals
11 with -- there's one other which deals with retrieval of 12 electronic --

13 JUDGE MCMAHON: You want some water? Let's get 14 some water for Ms. Broderick here.

15 MS. BRODERICK: There's one other which deals with 16 retrieval of electronic communications. We had believed
17 that the defendants had produced electronic communications
18 in large part -- well, two things, really.

19 The first is that there were a substantial number 20 of electronic communications going back a fair way that were

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

21 produced, and due to an inadvertently produced document, or 22 so the defendants say it was an inadvertently produced
23 document, we discovered that, during the course of what the 24 defendants referred to as their investigation, there was 25 some retrieval of electronic communications from back-up

14

1 tapes.

2 And also, of course, if an investigation is done,
3 which is supposed to apportion blame, it is customary to 4 retrieve electronic communications from back-up tapes
5 because it is difficult to say that you have made some kind
6 of investigation without finding out who said what to whom.

7 So, we believe that there had been retrieval of 8 back-up tapes, of electronic communications from back-up
9 tapes generally and proceeded on that basis. And there
10 were, apparently, back-up tapes retrieved for two persons
11 and we did discover that from this inadvertently produced
12 document.

13 We then took -- I then took the deposition of one
14 Herman Birnbaum, an internal auditor who does that on a
15 contract basis with the company. I subpoenaed documents
16 from Mr. Birnbaum and got from Mr. Birnbaum a couple of 17 email communications with one of the individual defendants
18 that were most interesting and that had not been produced by 19 the defendants.

20 So, I immediately wrote to the defendants and 21 said, well, this is very strange, how is it that these 22 documents were produced by Mr. Birnbaum and not by the 23 company?

24 I wrote once, got no response. I waited a while.

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

25 I was polite. I wrote again, I got no response. So,

15

1 finally, I wrote a third time and I said, now, wait a
2 minute, is it that you did not search back-up tapes?

3 And it was on the third try that I discovered
4 that, no, they had not searched back-up tapes for one of the 5 individual defendants, indeed they had not searched back-up
6 tapes for any of the individual defendants and they said,
7 you should have asked.

8 JUDGE MCMAHON: My question to you all is: Was 9 there an electronic discovery protocol entered into between 10 the parties at the outset of this case?

11 MS. BRODERICK: No.

12 MR. SERIO: No, your Honor.

13 JUDGE MCMAHON: Well, there should have been.

14 MS. BRODERICK: Yes, there should have been.

15 JUDGE MCMAHON: There should have been.

16 MS. BRODERICK: Yes, there should have been.

17 JUDGE MCMAHON: And why didn't you do that?

18 MS. BRODERICK: Because I naively believed that -- 19 yes, that was very bad.

20 I thought, since there had been an investigation
21 and since there was this flood of electronic communications,
22 any document saying that there had been a search, that there
23 had been a general search and I was wrong. And I also 24 believed that there would have been some communication from 25 the defendants if there had not been or some kind of an

16

1 objection or something. I was wrong.

2 MR. SERIO: May I respond?
Page 13

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

3 JUDGE MCMAHON: I will say this, I was shocked,
4 shocked, not to get anything from anybody about electronic
5 discovery in this case and I naively assumed that you folks
6 had all worked it out.

7 Yes. Go right ahead.

8 MR. SERIO: Yes, your Honor. With regard to the 9 particular emails that were produced, the defendants had a
10 number of broad search terms. The particular emails that 11 were produced in the deposition that Ms. Broderick suggests
12 should have been produced did not contain the name TurboDisc
13 or any of the other broad search terms that we utilized to 14 review over a million pages of electronic data.

15 So they simply weren't picked up, as occasionally
16 happens, we used an extensive list of search terms, these 17 particular couple of emails that were produced by a 18 third-party witness, Mr. Birnbaum, he produced everything he 19 had related to TubroDisc, because he was a consultant. He 20 had a limited finite number of documents. He simply 21 produced everything. That's why they were turned over.

22 With regard to back-up tapes, of course, our
23 objections to documents, of course objected to burdensome
24 requirements. There was no discussion. The first time
25 back-up tapes were mentioned in a January 31 letter from Ms.

17

1 Broderick and we immediately responded that we had not
2 searched back-up tapes, there had been no request to do so,
3 and the case law makes clear it's burdensome and often
4 cost-shifting protocols are arrived at. We assumed that the 5 million-page search we did was sufficient.

6 JUDGE MCMAHON: Okay. Well, you're going to go

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

7 ahead and make your motion, and Judge Yanthis is going to 8 deal with it and he's going to deal with it at this very 9 late date applying the new Federal Rules on electronic 10 discovery, and if it means that you're going to engage in 11 a -- I would make your motion really fast.

12 MS. BRODERICK: We have it all done, your Honor.

13 JUDGE MCMAHON: Good. Because it's going to need
14 to be resolved quickly, because if, as I suspect is the 15 case, there is going to have to be a renewed search by the 16 defendants against a May 11 discovery deadline. That's not 17 going to be extended and a July 9 trial date that's not 18 going to be extended.

19 MS. BRODERICK: We have understood, your Honor,
20 and we have been careful to limit it to a limited number of 21 people.

22 JUDGE MCMAHON: What I'm suggesting is that this
23 is going to have to get resolved very quickly and I want it
24 resolved quickly.

25 MR. SERIO: Your Honor, may I ask one question?

18

1 we have, because of the previous discovery
2 deadline, which had been February 28, we have three senior
3 executives of Veeco who were scheduled to be deposed today,
4 as your Honor is aware, and Tuesday and Wednesday.

5 JUDGE MCMAHON: Those depositions should go
6 forward as scheduled.

7 MR. SERIO: Thank you, your Honor.

8 JUDGE YANTHIS: Ms. Broderick, when are you going
9 the file that motion we're talking about?

10 MS. BRODERICK: Well, it's just about done, so we 11 were planning to -- next week, early next week.

02232007CM_VeecoInstruments

12 JUDGE YANTHIS: Okay, by Wednesday of next week.
13 How much time do you need to respond?
14 MR. SERIO: Could we do it Monday of the following
15 week?
16 JUDGE MCMAHON: Monday the following week, fully 17 submitted at that time.
18 MS. BRODERICK: There's one issue that we were 19 planning to address in the same motion, which is a very 20 minor issue, and that is that among the documents that we 21 asked for in our first request were all documents relating 22 to Mr. Huff, who was the -- as a matter of fact your Honor
23 ruled on the deposition of Mr. Huff and Mr. Huff was the 24 person who made all the entries that were erroneous.
25 JUDGE YANTHIS: You can include that and respond

1 to that.
2 MS. BRODERICK: Okay. Thank you very much.
3 JUDGE MCMAHON: I have before me the letter on 4 July 27, 2006, Gibson Dunn letterhead, telling me about the 5 proposed mediation and submitting a revised schedule.
6 Revised schedule contains the following task: Deadline to 7 complete document production. Not deadline to file document
8 requests but deadline to complete document production. It's 9 plain English. I have no difficulty understanding it. It
10 means the deadline to produce the documents to the other 11 side. That's what it means. August 21, 2006, that was the 12 deadline to which you both agreed for the production of,
13 P-R-O-D-C-T-I-O-N. Do I need to get a dictionary to explain
14 what that means? It means producing, supplying the 15 documents to the other side. That date has come and gone,

16 long since. I'm telling you that's what it means. Act
17 accordingly.

18 Derivative plaintiffs don't have anything. How 19 about the defendants?

20 MR. SERIO: Your Honor, I just don't want to get
21 into a situation -- that's fine, I actually have nothing.
22 That's fine.

23 JUDGE MCMAHON: If you don't raise it today, don't 24 be surprised if when you raise it in a letter next week or 25 two weeks or three weeks I don't pay any attention to it.

1 MR. SERIO: My only concern is that, with regard 2 to -- we very much would like to conclude the depositions in 3 these days as they have been set. I'm simply concerned that 4 the plaintiffs will utilize any remaining issues relating to 5 production --

6 JUDGE MCMAHON: They may have to come back. Yes.
7 If you have withheld documents, if you have failed to look
8 in places that you should have looked, if Judge Yanthis
9 concludes that you've been monkeying around, your people
10 just might have to come back. That is correct.

11 MR. SERIO: Very well, your Honor.

12 JUDGE MCMAHON: Anything else?

13 what else do you have?

14 JUDGE YANTHIS: I think that's it.

15 JUDGE MCMAHON: Okay. Go do good work.

16 MR. HARWOOD: Thank you, your Honor.

17 MS. BRODERICK: Thank you, your Honor.
